

15

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

The invention provides a method and system for monitoring a computer network and determining whether the network faces a threat from users. In the event that the existence of a threat is determined, the system in accordance with the invention provides a real-time assessment of the threat to the network and 20 responds to prevent damage to the network.

30

35